Phone: 504.392.3900
Fax: 504.392.2010
Email: jhobbs@rmgcal.com

Professional Background: Jonathan Hobbs has served as Operations Manager of Russell Marine Group's Rice Division for over ten years. His daily roles include managing a team of rice graders in Arkansas, Missouri, and Louisiana; overseeing logistics and quality control of the majority of bulk rough and milled rice exported from the Port of New Orleans; and bridging the gap between domestic and export execution and logistics. He has recently taken on a management role in RMG's vegetable, tropical, and fish oil department. Jonathan actively engages and publicly speaks on rice quality concerns from the seed and farm level to the ever-changing US rice quality and demands of the export market. Additionally, Jonathan handles a portion of the NGMO corn and specialty grain business for RMG's Japanese customers.

Jonathan was selected to and successfully completed USA Rice's Rice Leadership Development Program in 2016, which exposed him to a wide array of industry components in all parts of the U.S.'s rice production areas. Via four one-week sessions over a 2-year period, this program gives future leaders a comprehensive understanding of the rice industry through firsthand observations, with an emphasis on personal development and communication skills. As a result, he was chosen to participate in two USA Rice International Leadership Sessions in November 2017 and October 2019, which included in-depth exploration into the complex Nicaraguan and Colombian rice markets and Italian and European rice industry, respectively. Most recently, Jonathan was chosen to serve as a member on USA Rice's Latin America

Trade Policy Subcommittee and an Alternate Member on the Marketability and Competitiveness Task Force.

Jonathan earned a B.S. Civil Engineering with Business Minor from Tulane University (2003) and his J.D. + B.S. Civil Law from Louisiana State University (2008). Prior to joining Russell Marine Group, he practiced both civil engineering and law, with a focus on insurance defense and construction litigation. Jonathan attended the AAA/ICDR International Symposia on Advanced Case Management Issues in November 2019.
